

Introducing skill-level pricing

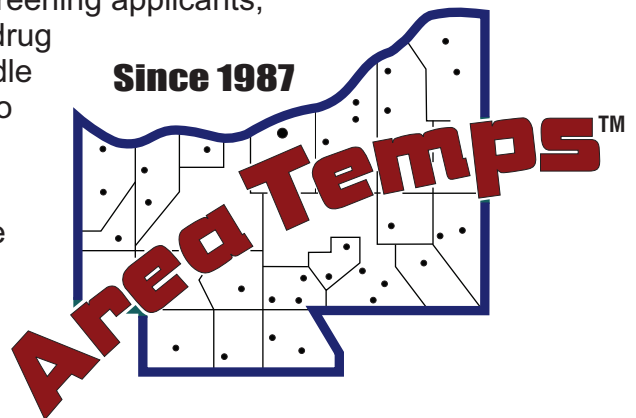

In today's business environment, companies understand and expect demand-based pricing. That's why Area Temps is proud to announce a new pricing structure based on candidate skill level and availability.

The concept is simple. When qualified candidates with a particular skill set are more readily available, the corresponding mark-up for those candidates will be lower. And volume accounts can save even more.

So now there's no reason to take on the time-consuming and repetitive tasks of posting to job boards, reviewing responses, screening applicants, running background checks, interviewing and drug screening. Let our professional recruiters handle that for you! We add hundreds of candidates to our applicant network every week.

We hope you'll give us an opportunity to quote your business under this new program. Please call or email your account representative, or the location nearest you for more details.
